Write Your Legacy

Use this journal to pass down your life's passion, lessons, ethics, and morals for others to know about the life you lived. Your values and memories should be passed on. When you are no longer here, how do you want to be remembered? What do you want people to know about you? Maybe you live a life of patience and caring for people, and you hope to pass this on to your relatives in hopes that they would do the same.

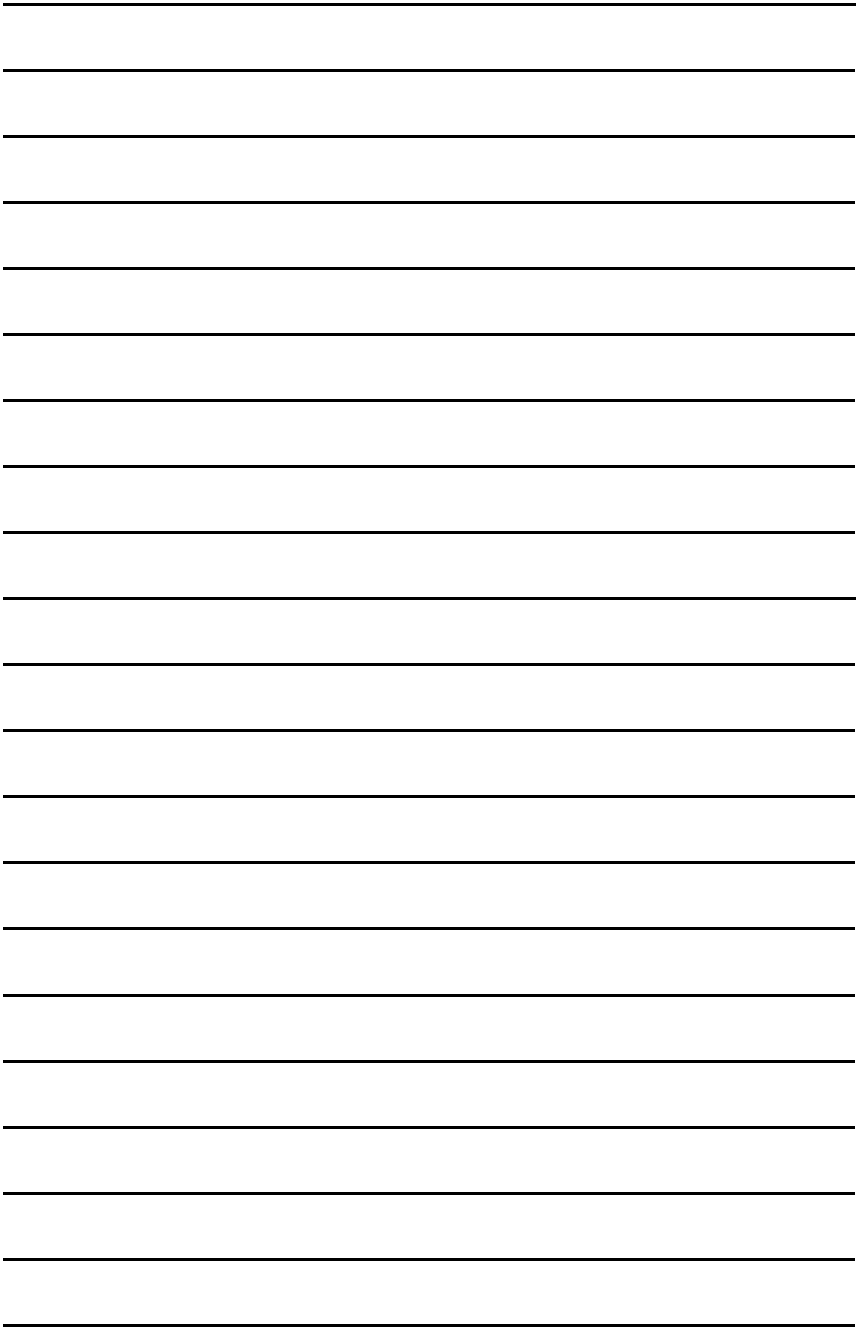

People are seeing your legacy every day and you will do a great service to leave your legacy in written form for others to know how you loved and lived your life.

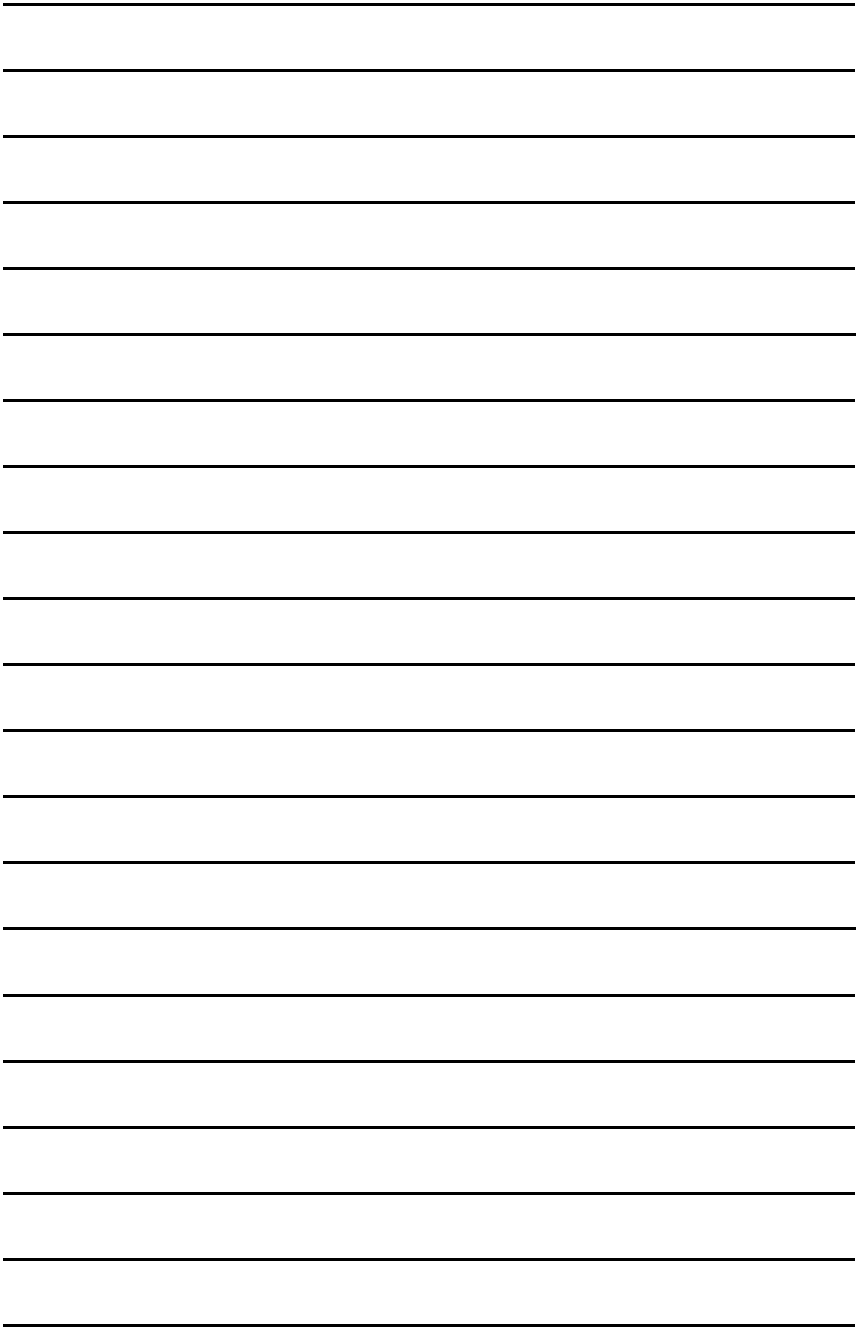

You are unique and it should be your desire to have your life be a meaningful contribution to others. Money and property are only a small portion of what you can leave behind. What you have learned through trials, mistakes, and your triumphs are worth sharing.

The purpose of this journal is to leave a written record of your life. Leave a legacy.
